VOL. 4 NO. 17

LOMOND, ALBERTA, FRIDAY, DEC. 5, 1919

$1.00 PER YEAR.

THE NOMINATIONS

The village nomination meeting on Monday night was about as exciting as the dead March in Saul. Owing to the fact that the hall proper was being used by the Masons as a lodge room, the public meeting convened in the Elliott, Argue & Co. store. Practically every ratepayer eligible was tendered nomination and from the lot a very satisfactory line-up is left to make a contest interesting on polling day. The candidates are:

W. A. Teskey.
J. H. Williamson.
L. H. Phillips.
W. B. Manning.
H. E. Elves.

The election will take place on Monday, Dec. 15th., polling to take place in the Lomond Realty offices from 2 to 10:30 P. M.

The wives of ratepayers have a vote and no doubt the result will typify the the feminine standards of perfection.

The Consolidated Schools and the Sunday School are uniting efforts to put on a Christmas concert this year, the date for which will be Saturday, December, 20th.

o o o

The Misses Adams entertained a number of their young friends at a dancing party on Saturday evening.

LOCALETS

George Hough returned Wednesday from the north.

o o o

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Olson have gone to Washington to spend the winter with relatives.

o o o

W. M. Armstrong is home again after spending a few days with his brother at Richards.

o o o

W. C. Moranda arrived home from North Dakota on Tuesday evening. He reports the harvest of a fifteen bushel crop, which we are bound to admit is better than Southern Alberta this year.

o o o

Born, at Nurse Elliott's cottage in Lomond on Monday, Dec. 1st., to Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Sandy, a son.

o o o

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Teskey entertained the Five Hundred Club on Wednesday evening.

o o o

Mrs. G. D. Salter has been in the City for several days this week.

o o o

Mr. Wilton at Travers has been ill with pneumonia.

There will be a dance in the Kinnondale school Dec. 12th.

The women of Vancouver, who are at present actively engaged in the betterment of soldiers widows and other dependants of the men who went overseas, will read with interest of the measures which Great Britain is enacting for their benefit.

The responsibility for the training of war widows, which up to the present has rested upon the ministry of pensions, is now transferred to the ministry of labor. The training schemes in existence will be carried on and the work developed on the lines already laid down.

This free training, which is distinct from the ministry of labor's training scheme for unemployed relatives of deceased soldiers—widows and dependents (other than children under 16) of deceased officers, and to widows of men who were in receipt of a pension under articles 11 and 13 of the royal warrant. The training is always arranged where a remunerative occupation is necessary for the needs of the women or their children, and where the occupation chosen points to a reasonable prospect of support.

At present there are some hundred widows in training in nursing, massage, health visiting, upholstery, dressmaking, cookery, etc., the occupation chosen points to a reasonable prospect of support.

In the case of widows and dependents of officers a maximum grant of $375 is allowed to accepted candidates for training to cover entire cost of instruction and maintenance. Widows of deceased men accepted for training are paid a maintenance allowance or up to $15 a week as well as fees for training not ordinarily to exceed $1.50 a week.

G. W. V. A. NOTES

What is a "Good Timer"? Come to the dance Wednesday evening at 9 p.m. sharp and find out.

Canadian Poultry Situation

No branch of food production has suffered during the war to a greater extent than that of poultry and eggs. In many countries of Europe it has almost disappeared, while in others scarcity of feed and high prices and the closing of markets have compelled serious reductions of poultry flocks. The chief of the Poultry Division of the federal Live Stock Branch, as Canada's opportunity to pave the way for a permanent place in the export trade to Great Britain. Mr. Brown expressed this opinion at the first Canadian National Poultry Conference, held in Ottawa this year, the report of which has been published and is available at the Published Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. It was strongly urged at that conference that this is the time of co-operation. The provinces were recommended to co-operate with the Dominion at the great clearing house of operations calculated to promote the industry. The poultry industry was recommended as a means of soldiers' re-establishment by Mr. W. J. Black, Chairman of the Land Settlement Board. He expressed the hope that he would see a small flock of poultry about the homes of every returned soldier who becomes settled on the land.

CHANGE AT POLICE BARRACKS

A. P. P. Constable Frewin is being transferred from the Lomond detachment, presumably to Medicine Hat, while Constable Maddison of Lethbridge is being sent here. Mr. Maddison is a married man, and apparently the Department wants to utilize all the available space in the local barracks building.

NOTES

There are a few cases of privation being brought to light in this district, but there should not be allowed any physical suffering as there are public institutions organized for the protection of such cases. You should make it your duty to report any such instances to the Provincial Police.

The Lomond Board of Trade is re-organizing Dec. 10th. Be on hand with interest.

Whether or not it is propaganda instigated by capitalists who are financially interested therein, we are not prepared to say, but it is a fact nevertheless that the northern territories in Western Canada are receiving no end of publicity as the next great field for the development of petroleum and other mineral possibilities. It is a fact that while most of us have been content to accept the north lands as frost bound and barren, a few far sighted pioneers have bursted this bubble and brought to light the indications of unlimited wealth held in store there by this Old Mother Earth of ours. Right now the Standard Oil and other interests are freely spending money to prove up Alberta's oil possibilities, and there is every indication of a successful outcome. Up in northern Manitoba mineral deposits have already been discovered to such an extent that millions in capital is forthcoming for development work.

The New York Herald states that The Pas will see a rush when spring opens of hundreds of prospectors. And as a good bit of the money is coming from New York, that paper should be well informed.

The Press touches on these subjects to awaken its readers to the hopeful outlook for this great Northwest of ours. We do not urge a drouth-area farmer to forsake his land and turn prospector, but we maintain that the production of this new wealth cannot help but radiate prosperity throughout the entire country. We look for Western Canada's population to more than double itself within the next ten years, and the value of improved land will no doubt increase in proportion.

Industrial progress is representative of the power supply; where an abundance of power is available, at a competitive cost, there will manufacturing develop.

In certain of our provinces, water-power is predominate, while in others, coal is the most important. Such is the case in Alberta, as it is exemplified in a pamphlet just issued by the Commission of Conservation, in which the subject of power in Alberta is treated by Mr. James White, the assistant to the chairman of the commission. The original paper was prepared for the Alberta Industrial Congress, in Calgary, in August last, but the subject being of such vast importance and its effect so widespread, Mr. White was induced to amplify his paper and have it issued in pamphlet form. At the Industrial Congress much consideration was given to the question of the production of power on a wholesale scale. This paper demonstrates that, by establishing super-power stations at the principal coal-mining centres, all the power required in the province can be generated from coal which, at present, is being wasted or left in the mine. It is suggested that super-power stations at Lethbridge, Drumheller and vicinity of Edmonton with transmission lines of, in general, not more than 100 miles in length, would supply electric energy to practically the whole of the province. The paper points out that one station at Drumheller, with transmission lines not exceeding in length the Ontario Hydro-Electric line from Niagara to Windsor, Ont., could supply all the villages towns and cities of the province except in an area to the west and north of Edmonton. The energy generated by only two great steam-electric units of 80,000 h.p. each, similar to one now in operation in a street railway power house in New York, would supply the whole province with power and light. Statistical data of cost of transmission lines and losses of electric energy during transmission are included. The relative costs of steam-electric and hydro-electric plants are compared, and the use of natural gas for the production of power, except under special conditions, is deprecated. The possibilities of the electrification of railways, the occurrence of petroleum and the fixation of nitrogen are briefly discussed. In the review of the whole situation strong emphasis is placed upon the importance of a thorough and detailed study of all the factors of the problem, financial, economic and physical. It is urged that the provincial authorities study most carefully whether economic and other conditions in any locality warrant the furnishing of electric energy before entering upon

THE SUCKERS WILL STILL BITE

The Brooks Bulletin contains the following, which goes to prove that suckers are still being hatched. After we return from our prospecting tour in northern Manitoba next year we will be illegible to canvas the Steepleville country with a gold brick.

The Steepleville farmers are taking steps to secure the services of C. M. Hadfield, the Los Angeles "rain-maker" to secure sufficient moisture for a crop next year. Hadfield's method is to build a series of towers by means of which secret chemicals are circulated through the atmosphere. He guarantees rain in 4 days and during the growing season he guarantees 10 inches of rainfall and asks $1000 an inch for every inch of rainfall over the average up to 10 inches.

Hadfield is highly spoken of in many localities and the Red Deer river farmers are anxious to give him a trial. There is no charge if the rain fails to materialize and they feel that it is well worth trying out. A big attendance is expected at the meeting on Saturday.

The engineers of the Hayden Stone Co. New York, passed through Winnipeg recently after visiting Northern Manitoba to determine the famous Flin Flon Copper Mine. Their report is said to be most favorable, and negotiations will likely be completed in December. Should they be successful, it is almost certain that a railway will be extended into Northern Manitoba near The Pas. The line will extend from the Pas to the mine, a distance of over seventy miles. This mine is worth approximately two million dollars.

The Hayden Stone Co. are acting as agents for J. C. Jackson, Utah copper interests.
